Of Counsel

aldo.caira@wilsonesler.com

New York, NY – 212.915.5963

Aldo Caira represents individuals and businesses in all phases of civil litigation. His practice focuses on the defense of claims in complex matters spanning a wide range of areas, including premises liability, personal injury, New York Labor Law disputes, and insurance defense.

Before joining Wilson Elser, Aldo practiced at a regional civil litigation firm, handling matters involving construction accidents and New York Labor Law, property damage, insurance coverage, and premises liability. Previously, he served as an Assistant Corporation Counsel for the City of New York, where he represented the City and its agencies in personal injury, civil rights, and administrative law matters. During law school, Aldo interned for the Honorable O. Peter Sherwood of the New York State Supreme Court, Commercial Division.

Insurance and Reinsurance Defense

Aldo's insurance defense practice emphasizes comprehensive claim analysis, strategic settlement evaluation, and practical litigation assessment, with a focus on prompt exposure reporting and efficient, cost-effective resolution.

Construction Accident & Labor Law Matters

Aldo's practice includes handling high-exposure construction accidents, some of which have involved catastrophic personal injuries and wrongful death. Also has represented commercial property owners, property managers, and various other entities in a wide range of cases related to New York Labor Law.

Complex Tort & General Casualty

Aldo is well-versed in handling general tort liability claims, including premises liability and personal liability claims. He employs a client-centric, pragmatic approach to deliver sensible and cost-effective advice that controls and minimizes risk and exposure.
