Callyson Grove maintains a diverse practice that encompasses a wide range of litigation matters, including medical malpractice, legal malpractice and employment claims. She has handled commercial litigation in international arbitrations before the International Centre for Dispute Resolution®, the international division of the American Arbitration Association and under UNCITRAL rules. Callyson's strong research and writing skills enable her to prepare persuasive motions and appellate briefs. She has authored briefs on behalf of appellees and appellants before the Appellate Court of Maryland (formerly the Maryland Court of Special Appeals), the D.C. Circuit, and the D.C. Court of Appeals.

With a strong work ethic and devotion to producing a quality product, Callyson includes among her priorities understanding her clients' goals and legal options and obtaining the best result from that vantage point. She has experience litigating and settling cases throughout the country on behalf of national clients and regularly handles matters in a variety of venues throughout the District of Columbia and Maryland, such as administrative, trial and appellate cases before state and federal courts as well as administrative agencies.

Medical Malpractice

A substantial portion of Callyson's diverse practice consistently involves litigating medical malpractice cases on behalf of health care providers across all medical specialties. She has defended complex malpractice cases in the District of Columbia and Maryland, and she represents health care providers in disciplinary proceedings before their professional boards. Callyson is a skilled litigator with ample experience taking and defending depositions, arguing motions, and mediating and trying cases.
