Philadelphia, PA – 215.606.2772

Kelly Okamura focuses her practice on professional liability defense, with a particular emphasis on representing architects and engineers. Before joining Wilson Elser, she practiced at a boutique firm outside Philadelphia, where she concentrated on estate planning and individual income tax matters.

Before becoming an attorney, Kelly spent more than six years on Wall Street with Morgan Stanley, where she held roles in market and operational risk. Her experience assessing risk, navigating regulatory frameworks, and analyzing complex financial operations provides a unique perspective that informs her legal practice.
