Kyle Fenton represents businesses, insurers, and individuals in civil litigation, with a focus on general liability, personal injury, business and contract disputes, and community association matters. His experience includes complex tort claims involving personal injury and property damage, as well as disputes involving commercial agreements, corporate operations, and homeowners association governance and enforcement.

Kyle handles matters from early case evaluation and discovery through dispositive motion practice, mediation, and settlement. He also advises businesses and entrepreneurs on commercial agreements, corporate governance, and operational issues, and represents homeowners associations in matters involving covenant enforcement, governing document interpretation, and assessment collections.
