Orlando, FL – 407.203.7616

Stephanie Trobradovic is an experienced litigator in the areas of complex and catastrophic claims involving negligent security, wrongful death, automobile accidents, premises liability, and other general liability claims. Prior to joining Wilson Elser, Stephanie represented insurance companies in negligence claims involving personal injury and in first-party property disputes.

Earlier in her career, Stephanie worked at the State Attorney's Office, Ninth Judicial Circuit as a Felony Domestic Violence and General Felony Prosecutor, represented Florida in a variety of trials (10+ first chair, 20+ combined first and second chair) ranging from criminal traffic offenses to sexual battery charges punishable by life in prison, as well as domestic violence and attempted first-degree murder cases. She has handled jury selection, opening and closing arguments, witness testimony, cross examination and a variety of evidentiary arguments.

Premises Security

When an incident related to negligent security occurs, Stephanie works with third-party entities to gather evidence and information, interviews witnesses and conducts an on-site investigation. She performs a thorough assessment of the claim to prepare a strong defense strategy for her clients. Stephanie's background working as a prosecutor in conjunction with law enforcement agencies helps her ensure that security undertakings are duly documented and preserved. When a serious incident occurs and long before a lawsuit is initiated, she often meets on short notice with appropriate personnel at the scene. In crisis situations, she provides emergency capabilities to help manage and control critical incidents, and offers assistance in responding to press inquiries.

General Liability

Upon receipt of a claim, Stephanie formulates an initial strategy plan that highlights the likely exposure, possible defenses and information needed to quickly move the claim to
