

Theodore G. Hughes IV

Associate

theodore.hughes@wilsonelser.com

St. Louis, MO – 314.930.2875

Theodore Hughes represents individuals and businesses in all aspects of civil litigation. His practice focuses on the defense of claims related to general liability, automobile liability, premises liability, personal injury, product liability, and workers' compensation disputes. Ted effectively manages all phases of litigation from inception through trial, bringing a focused strategy, clear communication, and thorough preparation to every matter he handles.

Prior to joining Wilson Elser, Ted worked at a regional firm, handling insurance defense, workers' compensation matters, and various civil litigation. His diverse experience also includes working at a St. Louis-based civil defense firm, where he defended clients against claims involving premises liability, medical malpractice, wrongful death, motor vehicle accidents, and property damage.

Complex Tort & General Casualty

In the personal injury area, Ted has first-chair jury trial and bench trial experience representing individuals and businesses. His previous legal work includes handling plaintiff-side representation in personal injury matters, which enables Ted to bring valuable insight to the crafting of effective defense strategies for Wilson Elser clients.
