San Francisco, CA – 415.433.0990

Tom Moise has substantial experience handling a broad range of civil defense matters, including personal injury, catastrophic injury, construction defect, product liability, subrogation, contractual disputes, habitability claims, and assault and battery actions. He has managed cases through all phases of litigation, from investigation and discovery through motion practice, mediation, and trial preparation, and has extensive experience taking and defending depositions, arguing motions, and preparing matters for resolution.

Tom's diverse litigation background enables him to identify the core issues driving a dispute and develop practical strategies tailored to his clients' objectives. He approaches each matter with a detail-oriented, strategic mindset, focusing on efficient resolutions and favorable results.
